A LIST

CLAIMS FOR BOUNTY LAND

FOR REVOLUTIONARY SERVICES,

Acted upon by the Governor since the first day of April, 1834.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, }
February 26th, 1835. }

SIR,

Enclosed is a communication to the house of delegates, which you will be pleased to lay before that body.

I have the honor to be,

Very respectfully,

Your most obedient servant,

LITT'N W. TAZEWELL.

To the Speaker of the House of Delegates.

To the House of Delegates.

In compliance with a resolution adopted by the house of delegates on the 19th instant, I have now the honor to report to that body a list of the claims (with the names of the claimants,) for bounty land for revolutionary services, acted upon by me since the first of April last; also, a copy of the only rule that has been established by me to regulate the presentation and decision of claims for military bounty land; and copies of all the correspondence had between myself and the commissioner of revolutionary claims in reference to such claims.

I have received two other reports from this commissioner, containing voluminous lists of the persons believed by him to be entitled to military bounty land. Although these lists are not considered as being comprehended within the terms of the resolution referred to, yet I should have availed myself of this occasion to have placed them before the general assembly, if I had not believed that the publication of such documents would operate to the injury both of the claimants and of the commonwealth. Should the house of delegates entertain a different opinion, the original lists will be exhibited to them whenever they may be required. They are much too long to be copied in time for any action upon them during the present session.

LITT'N W. TAZEWELL.

By order of the governor.

WM. H. RICHARDSON,
Sec'y Com'th.

February 25, 1835.

Copy of the Governor's order of the 18th August, 1834, prescribing the mode in which claims for land bounty shall be presented in future.

The governor having now examined all the claims to land bounty which have been filed, and having decided upon all such claims as he has examined (except in a very few cases, the decisions in which are postponed for the present, for various reasons), he feels it necessary to order that in future, no application for land bounty be received by the secretary of the commonwealth, or be referred to the commissioner appointed by law to report upon such claims, without a special order to that effect from the executive.

To induce such order to be given in any case, the following rules must be observed : A memorial signed by all the parties claiming land bounty in any case, addressed to the executive, and verified by the affidavit of some one or more of the claimants, must be presented. This memorial must set forth the names of the applicants, their places of abode, and in what right they claim ; the name of the person supposed to be entitled to land bounty, in what company, regiment, corps or vessel he served ; when and where he enlisted or entered such service ; how long he continued in the same, and when and how such service ceased.

If such memorial is filed by the party originally entitled to the bounty claimed, the affidavit of the facts stated in it must be certain and positive ; but if the memorial be filed by any claiming under such party, the affidavit must set forth that the facts stated in the memorial are believed by the affiant to be true.

Upon the exhibition of such a memorial to the executive, if they shall be satisfied by the statements therein, that the facts stated, if proved, do not entitle the applicant to the bounty land claimed, the memorial will be rejected at once. But if, supposing the facts stated to be proved, the claim is considered as good, the memorial will then be referred to the commissioner, to examine the proofs which may exist to sustain it, and upon his report, the executive will proceed to decide upon the case finally. It cannot be useful to any to consume the time of the commissioner in investigating the proof of facts in any case, which facts even if found to be as stated, would not in the opinion of the executive, entitle the claimant to land bounty ; or to consume that of the executive with repeated suggestions of the same questions of law that have been often definitively settled in other cases.

(Signed)

LITT'N W. TAZEWELL.

August 18th, 1834.

A copy from the executive journal.

WM. H. RICHARDSON, Sec'y Com'th.

To his Excellency Governor TAZEWELL.

SIR,

I have been required by an act of the general assembly, entitled, "an act to provide for the appointment of a commissioner to examine and report upon claims for unsatisfied military land bounties, and for other purposes," passed March 11th, 1834, to "lay before the governor any information which I may discover as to any unsatisfied revolutionary claims of this commonwealth on the government of the United States."

Sundry claims have been presented to me since the passage of this law, for supplies, in money or otherwise, furnished to the Illinois regiment under the command of colonel (afterwards general) G. R. Clarke, during the revolutionary war. I have examined and adjusted these claims, to the amount of \$49,912 33 $\frac{1}{3}$. They are the claims of Pierre Menard for \$37,695 28 $\frac{1}{3}$; the claim of Joseph Bogy, heir of Joseph Placy, dec'd, \$5,868 15, and the claim of the heirs and distributees of Antoine Pettier, dec'd, for \$6,348 90, amounting in all to the first mentioned sum of \$49,912 33 $\frac{1}{3}$.

Virginia is responsible for the amount of these claims to the individual claimants; and the United States are bound to reimburse Virginia.

I have been informed of other claims, for supplies furnished to the Illinois regiment, which will be, but have not yet been, formally presented. They amount to considerably more than three hundred thousand dollars, principal. The unsatisfied claims of this class are numerous and large in amount.

I have searched in vain, in the public offices of this government, for satisfactory statements and settlements of the claims of Virginia against the United States for expenditures incurred by Virginia in the war of the revolution. There were such statements and settlements transmitted to congress, but no record of them was made, or copies of them preserved in any of the public offices of the government of Virginia. These documents may be found in the city of Washington.

I have seen some memoranda, or abstracts of accounts of Virginia against the United States, for expenditures incurred by Virginia in the revolutionary war, from September 1775, to January 1782. These accounts were transmitted to the seat of the federal government in 1786 or 1787. In them no estimate was made, or account taken, of expenditures of Virginia in the Illinois department; or of expenditures internally incurred, on account of the public rope walk, ship yards, salt works, lead mines, magazines, gun manufactory, public foundry, &c. &c.

It is probable that in later settlements with the United States, some of these expenditures have been taken into the estimate, and accounted for to Virginia; but there is little doubt that large sums of money, under several of these heads of expenditure, remain unpaid, and unaccounted for in any way by the United States. These sums might be ascertained without difficulty, if copies of the statements and settlements of the accounts of the state against the United States (which are in some of the public offices at Washington) could be obtained.

The journals of the house of delegates from 1779 to 1792, and down to a later period, contain much interesting and important matter, relating to the accounts of Virginia against the United States.

In the deed of cession of the North-western territory to the United States, there was a stipulation in the following words, to wit: "That the necessary and reasonable expenses incurred by this state, in subduing any British posts, or in maintaining forts and garrisons within, and for the defence, or in acquiring any part of the territory so ceded or relinquished, shall be fully reimbursed by the United States; and that one commissioner shall be appointed by congress, one by this commonwealth, and another by these two commissioners, who, or a majority of them, shall be authorized and empowered to adjust and liquidate the account of the necessary and reasonable expenses incurred by this state, which they shall judge to be comprised within the intent and meaning of the act of congress of the 10th of October, 1786, respecting such expenses."

The commissioners herein named were appointed and acted. It is important that their acts should be fully known. No documents which are in the public offices of Virginia, and which I have been able to find, give satisfactory information of their acts and proceedings. Such documents may probably be found at the city of Washington in some of the offices of the federal government. The names of these commissioners were John Pierce, William Heth and David Henley. They met in 1787.

The claims of Virginia against the United States for expenditures in the Illinois country, &c. are: First, for such expenditures as she has already incurred, and for which she has not been reimbursed by the United States. Secondly, for the amount of such outstanding, unsatisfied, just claims as individuals may have upon her, for supplies furnished to her western army during the revolution. The settlements which have been already made with the United States, of the claims of Virginia for her western expenditures, will throw much light on both of these classes of claims, and especially on the first class.

Virginia incurred considerable expenditures after the close of the revolutionary war, in maintaining possession of the North-western territory, all of which ought to be reimbursed by the United States.

Respectfully,

JOHN H. SMITH, Com'r, &c.

August 20th, 1834.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
RICHMOND, September 27th, 1834. }

SIR,

A few hours only before my departure from this place, on a visit to my home and family, I received your letter of the 20th ultimo. To this, I was prevented from then replying, by that circumstance. I now embrace the first leisure moment I have had, since my return here, to do so.

The act of March 11th, 1834, to which you refer, in appointing you the commissioner "to investigate and adjust the claims against the state of Virginia, for supplies in money, or otherwise, made to the Illinois regiment," neither requires you to make any report of your proceedings under it to the governor, or authorizes him to examine such report which you may choose to make. Hence, in adjusting all such claims against the state of Virginia, you are made absolutely independent of the executive, who have no authority to advise, to revise, to suspend, or to control your proceedings, and of course cannot be expected to report their results to the assembly. I am at a loss, therefore, to learn the precise object of your letter, which informs me that you have adjusted claims against the state, to the amount of \$49,912 33 $\frac{1}{3}$, and that you have been informed of other claims which will be hereafter presented, and amount to considerably more than \$300,000 principal. I have no authority to direct the payment of either of these sums; and if the action of the legislature be requisite to provide for their payment hereafter, an application to that effect would seem now to come more appropriately from those who must be better acquainted with the necessity for such action, than from the governor, with whom the law omits, (perhaps designedly,) to establish any relation whatsoever touching this matter.

I do not concur in the opinion which you seem to entertain, that because in a prior part of the act referred to, the commissioner thereby appointed, is required to "lay before the governor any information he may discover as to any unsatisfied revolutionary claims of this commonwealth on the government of the United States," he is therefore required to pursue the same course in regard to "the claims against the state of Virginia," which he is therein afterwards authorized to investigate and adjust. There is a striking difference between the two subjects, and the reason of the one does not apply to the other. The claims which this commonwealth may have on the government of the United States, or against any other person, require future executive action to liquidate or to collect their amounts. All information touching such claims is therefore required to be communicated to the governor, to guide and direct him in the performance of these his appropriate and prescribed duties. But with adjusted claims against the commonwealth, the executive has not, and from this very nature, ought not to have any concern, except to direct their payment by the proper officers, and this in particular cases only, where the governor is specially required by law to do so.

Nor can I concur in the opinion which you seem to entertain in regard to another subject referred to in your letter. You appear to think, that because the act referred to requires of you "to lay before the governor any information you may discover as to any unsatisfied revolutionary claims of the commonwealth on the government of the United States;" and because the claims which you have investigated and adjusted against the state of Virginia, may, in your opinion, constitute hereafter a just claim on the part of this state against the government of the United States for the reimbursement of the same; that therefore it is your duty to make a report of all such claims to the governor. Now, the claims referred to in this act, are not, as I think, such as may arise hereafter, but such as you believe do exist now. We shall agree most probably in the opinion that the state of Virginia can have no just claim against the United States "to reimburse her" until she shall have disbursed the sums she may expect to be repaid to her. None of the claims against this state which you have investigated and adjusted, however, have been paid by the state, I presume, or their adjustment by you would not have been necessary or proper. It is not certain either, that the state ever will pay or even recognize the justice of these claims against her. Therefore, she has not now certainly, and by possibility never may have, any just claim against the government of the United States for their amount. I cannot believe, then, that a mere potential demand, confessedly destitute of all foundation now, and which may never have any, can be considered as an "unsatisfied revolutionary claim of this commonwealth on the government of the United States," within the true intent and meaning of this act. Whensoever the state shall pay these claims, or admit their justice as against the commonwealth, no information will be required by those who order the payment to be made, or admit their justice, to apprise them of the facts attending the case; and until then, I ought not to seem even to add my approbation of what I can know nothing, to yours, who have examined every thing connected with the subject.

Such are my opinions of the act of March 11, 1834. I give them to you now, to prevent any possible misconception which might otherwise arise hereafter, as to our relative rights and duties. I neither have nor will have any thing to do with your proceedings under the second section of this act, until authorized to do so by law. You will therefore govern yourself accordingly, and report the same directly to the assembly, if you think it necessary so to do.

While expressing these opinions, I will avail myself of the occasion to add, that if you, or any other officer of the government, shall be of opinion that my agency with the government of the United States may be useful in procuring copies of any papers to be found in the archives of that government, I will very willingly employ all the means in my power to obtain any such whenever the particular document desired shall be designated to me. Or if you, or any other officer of this government wish to know, whether, as an individual, I can furnish any information that may be useful in the prosecution of the several duties with which you are charged by the laws, it will give me pleasure to satisfy any inquiries of this kind at any time whatever.

I am, &c. &c.

LITT'N W. TAZEWELL.

JOHN H. SMITH, Esq., Commissioner, &c.

SIR,

I made a report to your excellency on the 21st of August, 1834, on the unsatisfied claims of Virginia against the United States. I said in that report, "I have searched in vain in the public offices of this government for satisfactory statements and settlements of the claims of Virginia against the United States, for expenditures incurred in the war of the revolution."

In this communication, which is intended as a supplement to the said report, your excellency is referred to sundry documents relating to this subject, which I have thought ought to be communicated, to wit :

No. 1, which is "an estimated amount of the account of Virginia against the United States," by Andrew Dunscomb, commissioner for adjusting the continental accounts. This estimate was reported to the house of delegates in 1787, by a committee of that body.

No. 2, which consists of a copy of a letter from colonel William Davies, commissioner &c. bearing date December 4th, 1792, to governor Lee ; and of a statement of the debt of "the United States to the state of Virginia, for supplies and services on account of the late war." This statement is a copy of the general account current of the commonwealth against the United States, amounting to the sum of $ 28,281,145 18 cents, which was presented by commissioner Davies to the general board of commissioners for the settlement of the accounts between the United States and the individual states, that sat in Philadelphia in 1793.

No. 3, which is a letter from colonel William Davies, commissioner &c. to governor Lee, bearing date July 26th, 1793.

No. 4, which is a copy of a letter from the secretary of the treasury of the United States to the governor of Virginia, dated November 13, 1793.

Your excellency is referred also to an act of congress, entitled, "an act making provision for the debt of the United States," passed August 4th, 1790 ; and to the act of congress, entitled, "an act to provide more effectually for the settlement of the accounts between the United States and the individual states," approved August 5th, 1790.

Your excellency is also referred to the report of the general board of commissioners, appointed for the settlement of the accounts between the United States and individual states, consisting of William Irvine, John Kean and Woodbury Langdon. This report was made to the president of the United States according to law, on the 29th of June, 1793. No copy of it has been presented to your excellency. It may be found embodied in the report on the claim of Virginia against the United States, which was made to the house of representatives January 16, 1832, by the honorable John S. Barbour, from the select committee to whom was referred the memorial of Thomas W. Gilmer, esq. commissioner, &c. at the first session of the 21st congress. Mr. Barbour's report is No. 191 of the reports of that session of congress.

Whether the settlement of the state accounts by the federal commissioners, is to be taken as a final settlement or not? Whether the reduction by them of the claim of this commonwealth, from the sum of $ 28,281,145 18, to the sum of $ 15,282,565, was justly and properly made? Whether the rule of apportionment of the aggregate debt due to the individual states, which was prescribed by an act of congress and adopted by the general board of commissioners, was a just rule of apportionment or not? Or in other words, whether the said sum of $ 15,282,565, which the said commissioners reported due from the United States to Virginia, for advances, &c. during the revolution, has been justly and truly accounted for by the United States to Virginia? And whether upon the final settlement, Virginia was justly brought in debt to the United States by the said commissioners, the sum of $ 100,879? are questions on which there may exist a difference of opinion. It is late, but perhaps not too late, to make these questions.

The documents which have been reported to your excellency, have been found after a laborious search through the journals of the house of delegates, and through the office of the keeper of the rolls. The want of an index to the journals of the house of delegates, makes it an arduous undertaking to search those journals for information ; and much of the valuable information which they contain, may escape the notice of the person making the search.

The references to acts of congress and to the report of the general commissioners, &c. have been given, to call the attention of your excellency to some of the proceedings on the final settlement in 1793, of the accounts of the individual states against the United States.

Respectfully submitted.

September 1, 1834.

To his Excellency Governor TAZEWELL.

N. B. Settlements and payments of revolutionary claims of Virginia since the year 1793, will be the subject of a future report to your excellency.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
RICHMOND, September 29th, 1834. }

SIR,

In a bundle handed me since my return to this place, containing many letters and documents designed for the executive, which were received here during my late absence from hence, I find a letter from you dated the 1st instant. I have read this letter, together with the several papers it enclosed, very attentively; but I must say to you frankly, without being able to discover your object or intent in making such a communication to me at this time.

The duty required of you by the act of March 11th, 1834, "to lay before the governor any information you may discover, (during the examination you were therein directed to continue,) as to any unsatisfied revolutionary claims of this commonwealth against the government of the United States," will not be performed as I think, by reporting to him copies of papers and references to books containing mere evidence from which such information may perhaps be deduced. Facts and not evidence, conclusions and not documents, must constitute the information required by the act to be reported to the governor.

Besides, the range of your examination is limited by the first section of this act, "to any unsatisfied claim of this commonwealth against the government of the United States." Now it can hardly be supposed, that an account of this state against the United States, preferred by the agent of the state at least as early as 1792, settled as far back as June 29th, 1793, by a forum regularly constituted and authorized to settle it, and this settlement declared by an act of congress passed on the 5th of August, 1790, to be "final and conclusive," can now be considered as an "unsatisfied revolutionary claim of this commonwealth against the government of the United States." Especially when the documents themselves to which you refer, shew that upon the final settlement of this account then made, a balance was struck "against the state of Virginia" of $ 100,879, of which the governor was duly informed on the 19th of November, 1793.

The examination authorized by the resolution of 1833, which by the act of 1834 you are directed "to continue," did not require of you to search for and report to the governor any information you might believe you had discovered as to any claim against the commonwealth. Nor does this act authorize you to investigate any other such claims than those for supplies in money or otherwise made to the Illinois regiment. But nothing in your letter, or in the papers it encloses, relates to this latter subject, and if it did, as I have already informed you, the governor has no authority given to him to hold any communication with, or to receive any report from you, concerning this part of your duty. If it is your opinion, that the settlement of accounts between this state and the United States made in 1793 was erroneous, and that the correction of the errors of the settlement, if made, would convert the large balance then struck against the state, into a balance in her favour, a report shewing such a result, and containing the necessary proofs and references to sustain it, would be useful information, as to what you might then properly consider as an "unsatisfied revolutionary claim of this commonwealth against the government of the United States." But a report of an ancient settlement by which a large balance is due by the state, unaccompanied by any thing whatever calculated to prove this settlement erroneous, or that the correction of its errors, (if such are believed to exist,) would change the balance struck, cannot be regarded, as I think; such a report as is called for and required by the act of March 11th, 1834.

Entertaining these views of the subject, I feel it my duty to inform you, that I do not consider your letter such a report as the act referred to requires of you. And as I cannot perceive any possible benefit as likely to result from communicating such a document to the assembly, I shall not do so. If you differ with me in this respect, as you derive your authority and appointment directly from the legislature, you will be at liberty, of course, to report immediately to that body whatever you may see fit in regard to your proceedings in execution of its directions.

I am, &c. &c.

LITT'N W. TAZEWELL.

To JOHN H. SMITH, Esq., Commissioner, &c.

SIR,

The enclosed reports and papers, concerning five claims for military bounty land, were lately deposited in the secretary's office for your excellency. The secretary returned them to my office, with the declaration, that he could not receive them, or deliver them to you.

The refusal of the secretary to continue the medium of communication between me and your excellency, imposes on me the necessity of transmitting these reports and papers, as I shall hereafter transmit others which the law may require of me, immediately to your excellency.

Respectfully,

JOHN H. SMITH, Com'r, &c.
of Revolutionary Claims.

September 19, 1834.

To his Excellency Governor TAZEWELL.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, }
RICHMOND, September 30th, 1834. }

SIR,

Your letter of the 19th instant, covering reports and papers concerning five claims for military bounty lands, has been placed in my hands. In refusing to receive these papers from you, the secretary of the commonwealth acted in obedience to a written order of mine, given to him on the 18th day of August last, a copy of which I now enclose. Before I made this order, I asked the advice of the council of state concerning it. The order met the entire approbation of that body, and I then directed it to be registered to serve as a rule of proceeding in all cases to which it might hereafter apply.

Although it is not necessary for me to explain to you the reasons that induced me to make this order, which will merely regulate my own conduct, yet, as by doing so, I may possibly prevent some inconvenience and delay to others, I will therefore state them.

By an act passed in May 1782, claims for military bounty lands were directed to be exhibited at the war office; and upon the claimant's producing a certificate of the allowance of such claim from the commissioner of war, the register of the land office was required to grant to the claimant a warrant for the land allotted to him. The acts creating the war office, and the office of commissioner of war, being both repealed afterwards, all the duties appertaining to the said commissioner's office, were directed by an act passed in October 1782, to be performed by the executive, or such other public officer, in whose line they would, in the opinion of the governor and council, more properly fall.

In pursuance of this statute, all claims for military bounty lands were then exhibited to the executive, who either granted the certificates of the allowance of the same directly, or referred the claim so exhibited to some other public officer, who, in their opinion, could give the best information concerning it, for a report; and upon the receipt of such report, if it was favorable to the claim, and the executive concurred in it, the certificate of allowance was granted by the governor. In either case, these certificates of allowance when granted, were carried to the register, who issued his warrant in compliance with the same.

Such was the uniform mode of proceeding adopted and pursued from the year 1782 to 1833. During this long interval of time, so many claims for military bounty land had been presented and decided, that when any such claim was then preferred, it became a matter of much labour and difficulty to determine whether it had ever before been acted upon. When this difficulty was overcome, another more formidable was presented. In the frequent references had to the books and documents relating to claims for military service during the war of the revolution, these had, many of them, become mutilated, others were misplaced, and others being considered as no longer useful, had been cast away, and become buried in a rude and undigested mass of papers, so vast that none of the regular officers of the government could spare the time necessary to re-arrange them. So that it was truly difficult then to decide with confidence, as to the validity of any particular claim, even after it was known not to have been acted upon before. Moreover, an act of congress then recently passed, in promising to satisfy the just and unsatisfied claims for military land bounty due by this state, held out new inducements to claimants to exhibit their claims for allowance to the executive of Virginia, whose decision that the claim was just and unsatisfied, was made the pre-requisite to obtaining the promised land from the United States. In consequence of this act, the number of claimants was most numerous and importunate, at the very moment the difficulty of determining upon the validity of any particular claim was greatest.

In this state of things, a resolution was agreed to by the assembly on the 21st of February, 1833, by which the governor was required to employ some competent person to examine the huge and chaotic mass of revolutionary papers, and to report to the executive a list of the names of all such persons as might be entitled to unsatisfied claims on Virginia for bounty land, on account of services rendered in the war of the revolution. You were appointed by governor Floyd to perform this duty, and you made your report to him, which report he transmitted to the last assembly.

Here let me remark, that nothing contained in this resolution changed, or in any way altered the practice in relation to claims for military bounty lands, which it had been thought right to establish in 1782, and adhere to ever afterwards. These claims were still presented to the executive as before, and either acted upon directly by them, or referred to some officer of the government, to be reported upon by him to them. Your report shews that you were the person to whom such references were then sometimes made. Your authority to report upon any particular case, however, was not derived to you under the resolution mentioned, but from the reference made to you for that purpose by the executive, as to an officer of the government whose particular duties at that time rendered it probable that he could aid them better than any other in the performance of the task previously assigned to them by law.

Not having completed the work with which you were charged by the resolution of 1833, to enable you to do so, the act of March 11, 1834, was passed. By this you were appointed a commissioner, whose duty was declared to be, "to continue" the examination directed by the resolution of 1833. You were also required specially to examine all claims for military bounty lands, not theretofore decided, and to report the facts relating to the same to the governor.

The only effect of this act, so far as the present subject is concerned, is to constitute you the particular officer to whom all military claims for bounty land, not before decided, must be referred by the executive before they can be finally disposed of by the governor. But the law neither requires nor authorizes the claimant to exhibit his claim to you in the first instance; nor of you to report upon any case, until you were assured by the executive that it was a claim for military bounty land not before decided by them. That is to say, the claim must be exhibited in the first instance to the executive as before, who being satisfied that it had not been decided upon, would, as a matter of course, refer it to you for a report, and upon the return of your report, would act upon it finally.

Under the old constitution, the governor being incapable of performing any legal act without the advice of the council of state, every thing done by him was necessarily advised by them; and their advice was recorded in the journal kept for that purpose. Therefore, if a claim for military bounty land was then preferred to the executive, any disposition made of it, whether of allowance or reference, appeared in the records of the council. Under the new constitution, the governor being made independent of the council of state, and authorized to act without asking their advice, in all matters as to which he had no discretion, when a claim for military bounty land was presented to him, if it had not been decided upon before, he was bound by the act of 1834 to refer it to you. This duty of his was ministerial merely: he had no discretion allowed him, and of course had no right to ask the advice of the council of state. Therefore, when a claim for military bounty land was exhibited to the governor, as the records of the council could no longer furnish evidence of its exhibition, it became necessary, for the sake of the claimant, to provide some other record of this fact. Hence the secretary of the commonwealth was ordered to keep a register of all such claims so presented, and they were placed in his possession for that purpose. When recorded, the governor had no discretion given him how to act upon them, but was bound to refer them to you for a report. The secretary was further ordered by him to record in the same register which stated their presentation, what disposition was made of them. When the report you were required by the law to make to the governor was returned by you, the same register contained a record of this fact also, and the claim was so placed again in the possession of the governor. The matter then stood in the same predicament, precisely, as it would have been in if the act of 1834 had never been passed. It was the duty of the governor to lay the claim before the council of state, whose journal would record their future proceedings touching this subject.

Such was the practice I found existing when I came into office. Many hundred claims for military bounty lands were registered by the secretary of the commonwealth, as having been presented to the governor, and referred to you. On many of these, as appeared by the same record, you had returned reports, which brought up the cases regularly for decision; but on others no reports were then made. It was my duty to submit the claims which had been reported upon, to the council of state for their advice. But while I was engaged in making a final disposition of these, other reports were made by you upon the cases previously referred to you; and other claims were presented to me, to which I gave the same direction I found had been practised before, and properly practised, as I thought.

On the 18th day of August last, having disposed of all the claims which the register of the secretary shewed to have been presented to the governor at any time, and therefore all such as he could have referred to you, I saw the necessity of correcting the old and loose mode of proceeding which had previously been used, and to adopt the new mode marked out in the order. I then made a copy, which I have enclosed. This order, as you will perceive, was prospective in its operation, and had no reference to any case which had ever been presented to the executive, or was known to exist. Of the necessity of such an order, whether regard was had to the security of the persons interested, to the interest of the state, or to the convenience of many of the public officers, I had no doubt; nor had I any of my authority to make the order which these circumstances required.

It is not necessary, certainly, and would not be proper, probably, for me to state to you the facts which induced me to believe this order necessary at the particular time it was made. Of this I am the sole judge. The question of authority may perhaps stand on different ground. Therefore, I will merely say as to this, that a reference to the act of 1782 will shew that the whole subject was placed by that act within the sound discretion of the executive, to whom only it belonged to devise such a mode of proceeding concerning the presentation and disposition of claims for military bounty land, as they might judge best. The same plenary authority over the subject which the executive possessed under this act, was ever afterwards enjoyed by them until 1834. The law of March 11, 1834, impaired this authority in no other way than to make it the duty of the governor to refer to you all such claims previously presented to him, and not already decided. This has always been done since the passage of that act; but every claim that had then been preferred to the governor, having been disposed of in August last, no reason existed why the executive should not then exert a power they had always enjoyed of prescribing a new mode of proceeding to themselves in all future cases of a like kind.

Having established such a rule, the only question is, shall I permit it to be violated? Having no doubt as to the authority to prescribe the rule, and none as to the necessity of exerting this authority in the mode I have done, I will only say that I shall continue to adhere to the rule inflexibly until the legislature may choose to direct differently. Therefore, I return you the papers mentioned in your letter, to be disposed of as you may judge best. They came into your hands without the order or knowledge of the governor, who can never consent to receive reports from you not required by law, concerning cases not regularly referred to you by him. If the claimants think proper to present their claims to the executive in the mode required by the order of August 18th last, they will receive promptly all due consideration; but coming in any other manner, they will not be regarded as received.

I am, &c. &c.

LITT'N W. TAZEWELL.

JNO. H. SMITH, Esq., Commissioner, &c.

RICHMOND, October 9th, 1834.

SIR,

Your communication of the 30th September last, was received on the 7th of this month. It was in reply to mine of the 19th of September. It certainly was not my intention to have given you the trouble to reply so much at length as you have to my communication.

The performance of a duty which I then thought, and now think, the law has required of me, was the only object which I had in view in making to you the said communication, and in transmitting the reports and papers which it contained. That object has been gained.

The determination which you have avowed in your letter of the 30th of September, not to receive the said reports and papers, and the return of them to me, render it unnecessary that I should trouble you farther on the like occasions. If hereafter persons who believe they are entitled to military bounty land, shall forward their claims to me, and request my examination of them, and reports upon them, I shall, as far as is in my power, comply with their requests. Reports of their claims will be prepared, and (which is all that I can now do with them,) they will be retained in my office, together with the evidences of the claims, until a proper disposition can be made of them. It is unnecessary, and would now be improper to transmit them to you.

Your communications of the 27th and 29th of September last, were received by me also on the 7th instant.

They relate to certain reports which had been previously transmitted to you by me, acting in the capacity of commissioner, &c. These reports, and the documents accompanying one of them, were presented to you, because I thought (as I still think,) that their presentation was required by law.

When this effort was made by me (as I believed) within the pale of the law, to promote one of the great interests of the commonwealth, however awkward or informal the effort might be, I did not apprehend that your excellency would meet it with learned criticisms, nice distinctions, cavilling objections to the form and substance of my reports, and long disquisitions on the powers of the governor, and on the nature and extent of my duties as commissioner. I believed that I was addressing myself to an experienced and able statesman, of liberal views, and of clear and comprehensive mind. Therefore my reports (or as your excellency styles them, my letters,) were not so full, or so minute, or so explanatory, as they might have been, and are liable to some of the objections which you have urged against them.

The opinion that it was my duty to make them to you, is unchanged by the remarks contained in your two last above mentioned communications. After having made my reports, my duty ceased. It would have been impertinence or arrogance (or both) in me to have pointed out to your excellency the use to be made of them, or the manner in which they should be disposed of. The law has made it no part of my duty to enquire what use could be made of them, or how they ought to be disposed of? As your excellency has decided that you can make no use of them, I now take the liberty of suggesting that they may be returned to me.

A description of the various topics introduced into your excellency's communications, would be unprofitable—it would require more time and talent than I have. If I had a sufficiency of both, I should still want the disposition to engage in this discussion, believing as I do, that no good could result from it. But there are two general remarks which I beg leave to make in reply to the contents of your communications.

The first is—That it has been to me a matter of some surprise that your excellency should have manifested a disposition to restrain me, in my enquiries and researches, and in the performance of all my duties, as an humble commissioner of the commonwealth, within the narrowest limits prescribed by the letter of the law, or by the most strict construction of the law, whilst you, the highest officer in the commonwealth, are claiming for yourself plenary powers—powers not expressly given by the legislature—powers to supersede and dispense with an existing law—powers subject to no restraint or limit whatsoever, but such as your own opinion of expediency may impose or prescribe.

The second remark is—That I duly appreciate your declaration, that if I or any other officer of the government wish to know whether, as an individual, you can furnish any information that may be useful in the prosecution of the several duties with which we are charged by the laws, it will give you pleasure to satisfy any enquiries of this kind at any time. If I should at any time think it necessary, I may hereafter request such information of your excellency.

I am, respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

JOHN H. SMITH, Commissioner, &c.

To his Excellency L. W. TAZEWELL, Governor Va.

OF

NON-COMMISSIONED OFFICERS AND SOLDIERS

OF

AND

NON-COMMISSIONED OFFICERS

AND SEAMEN AND MARINES

OF

THE STATE NAVY,

Whose Names are on the Army Register, and who have not received Bounty Land for Revolutionary Services.

RICHMOND:

PRINTED BY SAMUEL SHEPHERD, PRINTER TO THE COMMONWEALTH.

1835.

To his Excellency L. W. TAZEWELL, }
Governor of Virginia. }

SIR,

I have been required by law to examine certain revolutionary documents, and to report to the governor a list of the names of all such persons as may be entitled to claims on Virginia for bounty land on account of services rendered in the war of the revolution—and such other information touching revolutionary services as may be deemed important.

In November last, I had the honor of reporting to his excellency John Floyd, then governor of the commonwealth, a list of the officers of the army, both of the continental and state lines, and also of the navy of Virginia, whose names appear on the army registers of Virginia, and who had not received bounty land for revolutionary services. I reported also to governor Floyd other lists, which, together with that last mentioned, were communicated by him to the general assembly.

I now report to your excellency a list of the non-commissioned officers and soldiers of the state line, and of the non-commissioned officers, seamen and marines of the state navy, whose names appear on the army register of Virginia, and who have not received bounty land for revolutionary services. A similar list of the non-commissioned officers and soldiers of the Virginia continental line will be hereafter reported.

I could not prepare these lists without having complete copies made of the army registers and of one of the military land warrant books belonging to the land office. The making of these copies has occupied the time of my assistant or clerk for several months; and it was impossible to complete them until within a few weeks past.

The list which I now report contains all the information (except such as has been heretofore reported to the governor) in relation to claims of non-commissioned officers, seamen and marines of the state navy, and non-commissioned officers and soldiers of the state line, which I am able to communicate, in conformity with the declared wishes of the general assembly.

The same name frequently appears more than once, and sometimes very often, on the army registers. I have supposed that each name was that of a different individual. They whose names are on the army registers, received certificates for the balance of pay due for their services, agreeably to the act of assembly passed November session 1781. As there was but one balance of pay due the soldier, his name would generally appear once only on the army register—but this was not always the case: The same individual may have had a balance of pay due him in different characters—For example, for services as a private, as a sergeant or corporal, and as a commissioned officer. Therefore, the name of the same individual may sometimes be found more than once on the army registers. This creates some uncertainty in regard to claims.

Names may be found on the list now reported, which are the same with those of non-commissioned officers and soldiers, &c. who have received bounty land. It may generally be presumed that there were as many different persons of the same name as there were times of the occurrence of the name on the army register; but this will not always be the real state of fact, for the reason before given.

A list of the non-commissioned officers and soldiers of the Virginia continental line, whose names are on the army register of Virginia, and who have not received bounty land, will be reported as soon as it shall be completed.

Respectfully submitted.

JOHN H. SMITH, Com'r &c.

OF

AND SOLDIERS

OF THE

VIRGINIA LINE

ON CONTINENTAL ESTABLISHMENT,

Whose names appear on the Army Register, and who have not received Bounty Land.

RICHMOND:

PRINTED BY SAMUEL SHEPHERD, PRINTER TO THE COMMONWEALTH.

1835.

To his Excellency the Governor.

SIR,

In obedience to an act and resolution of the general assembly, I herewith report to you a list of the non-commissioned officers and soldiers of the Virginia line upon continental establishment, whose names are on the army register, and who have not received bounty land for their services in the war of the revolution.

It is believed that this list, and that which was lately reported, of the non-commissioned officers and soldiers of the state line, &c. are as nearly correct as the imperfect state of the public records would admit of their being made.

I beg leave to make a single remark upon the contents of these two lists: It is this—The list of non-commissioned officers and soldiers of the state line contains names of some individuals, who have received bounty land as belonging to the continental line: and the list of non-commissioned officers and soldiers of the continental line may contain the names of individuals, who have received bounty land for services in the state line. No list of individuals so circumstanced has yet been prepared.

Respectfully,

COMMISSIONER'S OFFICE,
Richmond, January 7th, 1835. }

OPINION OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Gen. S. E. PARKER, Chairman of the Committee on Revolutionary Claims. }

SIR,

The committee on revolutionary claims have, through you, requested my opinion on two questions.

1. Are the legal representatives of the officers, &c. of the Virginia line, who died or were slain in the military service in the revolutionary war, entitled to bounty land from the state of Virginia?

2. Is there any discrimination between the cases of those who died or were slain before, and those who died or were slain subsequently, to the passage of the land bounty laws?

The first question, I presume, is intended to embrace the cases of soldiers as well as officers, and the cases of soldiers and officers in the Virginia line only. There were many troops in the service of the state, and some in continental service, on terms of enlistment, &c. differing materially from the Virginia line. The same rights do not belong to both, and to avoid misunderstanding, I shall confine my answer to the Virginia line only. By the Virginia line, I understand the fifteen battalions raised under the act of October 1776, found in Statutes at Large, p. 178, vol. 9.

The rights of the legal representatives of the officers and soldiers must be founded on the rights of the officers or soldiers under whom they claim. I have no doubt, that whenever the officer or soldier dying in the service had a claim to bounty land, that claim passed to his representatives. By the express terms of the first land office law, the heirs of the officer or soldier, on due proof that he died in the service, could procure a warrant for the quantity of land engaged to him. 10 Stat. at Large, pp. 51, 52.

The law of October 1776, pp. 160, 161, is more explicit. There can be no doubt, that whenever an officer or soldier was, by his enlistment or engagement, entitled to land bounty for his services, if he died in the service, his heirs became entitled to the bounty he would have earned by the performance of his engagement. But it is also clear, that the representatives of an officer or soldier dying in the service, cannot as a matter of right or justice, claim for him a land bounty, because of his death, if by the terms of his engagement he had no claim to land bounty, and could not by faithfully rendering his stipulated services, have earned a land bounty.

An examination of the acts passed to raise and recruit the Virginia line, satisfies me, that there were many men in that line who cannot, by any construction of the laws, claim a land bounty.

The Virginia line was composed of fifteen battalions; six of these were raised under the act of October 1776, before referred to, and nine under previous acts.

By the ordinance of convention of July 1775, two regiments were raised for general defence of the colony. The officers and soldiers were to receive a per diem pay; and all maimed or disabled, were to be supported at public expense. The term of service is to be at the discretion of the convention, but no soldier could be compelled to serve more than one year, if he gave three months notice of his desire to be discharged. Hen. Stat. at Large, vol. 9, pp. 9—14. Another regiment was raised for the defence of Accomack and Northampton.

By the ordinance of December 1775, Stat. at Large, vol. 9, pp. 76—82, five companies are to be added to the two regiments already raised, and six additional regiments are to be raised. The term of service at the discretion of congress, the convention or assembly, but the soldiers were not compelled to serve longer than the 10th of April, 1778, if they gave three months notice of their desire to be discharged. The soldiers and officers to receive a per diem pay; the soldiers to receive a bounty of 20 shillings; to be exempted from taxes, and if maimed or disabled, to be supported at public expense. pp. 93, 94. Seventeen rifle companies and one artillery company were to be raised on the same terms.

By the act of May 1776, p. 135, the ninth (or Accomack regiment,) was to be augmented, so as to make it equal to the other eight; and the same bounty, pay and allowances given to the additional officers and soldiers, that had been given to the officers and soldiers previously belonging to the regiment.

By the same act, 400 men were to be raised for the defence of the western frontiers; to be stationed on the western posts; to receive the same pay and allowances that had been given to the six additional regiments. The term of service to be at the discretion of the executive, but officers and soldiers were not compelled to serve longer than one year. pp. 137, 8.

From these laws, it appears that the army of Virginia now consisted of nine battalions of infantry and seventeen rifle companies, one artillery company, and 400 men at the western posts, and that the longest term of service was until the 10th of April, 1778.

In October 1776, Stat. at Large, vol. 9, p. 178, an act was passed for raising six additional battalions of infantry for the continental service.

This act recites, that congress thought the army of the United States ought to be augmented to 88 battalions, enlisted to serve during the war, unless sooner discharged, and that congress engaged to give a bounty in money, clothes and land. And that there were already in continental service, eight battalions of Virginia regulars, enlisted to serve for certain terms only. And that one other battalion, formerly in service, had been ordered to be re-established by new levies; which nine battalions were to be part of the fifteen, provided they should re-enlist for the continuance of the war. And that there were also six companies on the Ohio, and that it was expedient they should be engaged as part of the six new battalions. Therefore, the governor and council were empowered to take such measures as should seem most expedient, to engage the nine battalions, and so many of the companies stationed on the Ohio, as shall be willing to be of the armies of the United States, on the establishment before recited, by giving recruiting powers to the officers, or to commissioners, &c.

Officers were appointed in each county to recruit men, and when the recruits arrived at the place of rendezvous, the governor was to procure from congress commissions for the officers. This act promises nothing, on behalf of Virginia, to either officers or soldiers.

Another act passed at the same session, recites this act to engage the nine battalions and the six additional battalions; and that congress, by another act, promises to those who decline to enlist for the continuance of the war, but will enlist for three years, the same pay and bounty, except land, which is given only to those who enlist without limitation of time; and directs the recruiting officer to keep two rolls, one to be signed by those who enlist for the war, and one by those who enlist for three years.

By the operation of these two acts, the nine battalions raised by Virginia were transferred to congress; but the terms of enlistment could only be changed by their own individual acts. It is fair to suppose that many of the men composing these battalions did not re-enlist. Many enlisted for three years, and others for the war. There would be, then, in these battalions, and perhaps often in the same companies, men whose term of service expired on the 10th of April, 1778, and who could have at the end of their term no claim to land bounty—men who declined the enlistment for the war, to which land bounty was attached, and engaged for the three years service, to which land bounty was not attached, and who, therefore, could not, by any service under their contract, earn land bounty. In the six other battalions, there would be the 400 men stationed on the Ohio, who might fall into either class, and the additional troops who could only be of the second and third classes.

By the act of May 1777, pp. 276, 7, men were to be drafted to fill the six battalions—were to be regular soldiers, to have the pay and allowances of regular soldiers, and to be treated as such, and to serve for three years.

By the act of October 1777, p. 337, the officers were directed to use their exertions to re-enlist those soldiers whose term of service is near expiring, to serve for three years, or during the war, and were to give a bounty of $ 20, over and above the continental bounty. The same act provided that men should be drafted to fill the six battalions—that the drafts should receive $ 15 over and above the continental bounty. By another section of the same act, p. 343, it is enacted that if any of the soldiers drafted into service, will, after joining the army, enlist for three years, or during the war, they shall receive $ 10 over and above the continental bounty of lands and money.

It will be seen, that in all the previous acts, the soldiers who were entitled to land bounty, were to receive it from congress, and that the state was not pledged for its payment. It also appears that congress had only promised the land bounty to the men who enlisted without limitation of time. By promising to drafts who enlisted for three years, $ 10 over and above the continental bounty of land, Virginia either mislead those men or intended to assume the payment herself. The effect of this engagement on the future legislation of the state, will be noticed hereafter. By this act, a new class of persons is added to the Virginia line, and entitled to land, viz: men who having been drafted after joining the army, enlist to serve three years or during the war.

By the act of May 1778, p. 454, the soldiers enlisted for the Virginia line were to be enlisted for three years, or during the war.

A bounty of $ 150 was given to those who enlisted for the war, $ 100 to those who enlisted for three years. And soldiers who enlisted for the war, on producing a discharge to the chancellor, were to be exempted from taxes for life; and if maimed or disabled, were to draw full pay for life.

From an examination of this act, it is obvious that no bounty land was promised directly or indirectly to the three years soldiers.

By an act passed October 1778, pp. 588, 9, to raise 2216 men, rank and file, there is promised to each man who will enlist for three years, or during the war, four hundred dollars, together with the continental bounty of lands, pensions for life to the disabled, and pensions to the widows of those who die.

The fair construction of this act would seem to be, that in addition to the money bounty, the soldiers were to receive a land bounty from congress; but as congress gave no land bounty to men who enlisted for a limited time, the act may have intended to give that bounty by the state.

By the act of 1779, vol. 10, p. 23, entitled, an act concerning officers, &c. it is enacted, that every able bodied freeman who will enlist, and who, having enlisted to serve a particular period of time unexpired, will re-enlist to serve during the continuance of the present war, among the troops of this commonwealth, either at home or in the continental army, &c. &c. shall be entitled to so much money, &c. clothing, &c. And at the end of the war every of the said soldiers, &c. shall be entitled to a grant of 100 acres of any unappropriated land, &c.

This is the first act promising a land bounty to the Virginia troops, (except the special acts above referred to,) and the terms on which it is promised cannot be misunderstood. The bounty is annexed to the contract of enlistment to serve during the war. It obviously is not a gratuity, but is a substantial prominent consideration of the contract. It is clearly prospective in its character. The enlistment is to be made under the authority of the act, and the service from thence during the continuance of war.

These are the only acts, so far, under which land bounty can possibly be claimed.

I have already stated, that under the former act, there were three classes of soldiers in the 15 battalions: First, men enlisted to serve until 10th April, 1778—men enlisted for three years, and men enlisted during the war. To the third of these classes, congress had promised a land bounty, and congress alone was bound to give it. The first class could not claim a land bounty. The second class could not claim a land bounty from congress, because congress had expressly declared that the land bounty was to be given only to those who had enlisted without limitation of time. But from the legislation of Virginia, there seems to have been two exceptions to this class. First, those men who were drafted, and on joining the army, enlisted for three years. Second, those who enlisted to fill out the requisition of 2216 men.

It is clear, then, that none of the soldiers enlisted to serve till the 10th of April, 1778, were entitled to land bounty, and although they died in service, their representatives can have no claim. That no soldier enlisted for three years can have a claim unless he comes within the two exceptions above stated. That no soldier enlisted to serve during the war previous to the act of May 1779, can have any claim on the state of Virginia for bounty land; their claim was on the United States. The representatives of a soldier who died in the service before May 1779, cannot, therefore, claim for him bounty land from the state of Virginia, unless they can prove that he was either a drafted man, who, after he had joined the army, enlisted for three years, or that he enlisted to fill out the number of 2216 men raised under the act of 1778, to complete the battalions in continental service.

To understand some act subsequently passed, it must be borne in mind, that the grants of land were postponed by the act of May, 1779, till the close of the war.

In May 1779, an act was passed establishing a land office. See Hen. Stat. vol. 10, pp. 50, 51. The second section of this act recites: "And whereas, a certain bounty in lands hath been engaged to the troops on continental establishment, &c. &c. Be it enacted, that the officers and soldiers of said troops, as well as the officers and soldiers to whom a bounty in lands may or shall be hereafter allowed by any law of this commonwealth, shall be entitled to the quantity of waste and unappropriated lands respectively engaged to them by such laws." A commissioned officer, or his heirs, on certificate of a general officer, &c., a non-commissioned officer or soldier, on certificate of his colonel, &c. that he served out the time required by law, or died, or was slain in the service, might obtain a land warrant by taking the steps required in the act.

In settling the construction of this act, it will be necessary to advert to the fact, that the act of the same session, (just recited,) is the only act promising land bounty to the officers and soldiers generally, on behalf of Virginia, and that promise was made to the soldiers on the express condition of re-enlistment to serve during the war. The only acts promising bounties in special cases, are the act of 1777, promising it to drafted men who enlist for three years, and men who enlisted for three years under the act of 1778, to raise 2216 men to fill out the continental battalions. Another obvious consideration is, that this law was not passed to recruit soldiers or to be the basis of any contract of enlistment, but is passed only to carry into effect the laws previously passed, and to secure the engagements already formed or thereafter to be formed under the laws of Virginia. It cannot be tortured into an assumption of the engagements of the United States, but must refer solely to the engagements by the laws of the state. From these premises, it clearly follows, that only those persons, who, after the act of May 1779, enlisted or re-enlisted to serve during the war, or those who enlisted under the special acts of 1777 or 1778, above stated, can claim land by the provisions of this act. Any contrary inference that could arise under the provision for granting certificates of past service, is repelled by the fact, that the land promised could not be granted until the close of the war, and of course the certificate then granted must have a retrospective character.

This construction is fortified by the fact, that at the same session, a resolution was reported by a committee of the house, to grant 200 acres of land over and above the continental bounty, to soldiers who theretofore had enlisted or thereafter might enlist to serve three years or during the war, and that resolution was laid on the table and not acted on.

In October 1779, p. 214, another act was passed for re-enlisting troops. This act empowers the officers of the Virginia line, the two state regiments, and the artillery regiment in service, to re-enlist any soldiers whose term of service expired in that year, and to pay a bounty of $ 750. It directs the counties to complete the drafts directed by the law of 1778, above noticed.

In October 1780, (chap. 3, pp. 326—331,) an act was passed to recruit the state's quota of troops in the continental service. By this act, each county was required to furnish a specified number of men, and the able bodied men were divided into divisions, and each division was required to recruit a man to serve in the continental service for three years or during the war. Recruits for three years to receive a bounty of $8,000; recruits to serve during the war to receive $12,000. And each recruit, and also all our soldiers now in service, that have already enlisted, or who may hereafter enlist by the 1st day of April, 1781, to serve during the war, and who shall continue to serve faithfully to the end thereof, shall then receive a sound healthy negro, between the ages of ten and thirty years, or sixty pounds in gold and silver in lieu thereof; and, moreover, shall be entitled to three hundred acres of land in lieu of bounties given by former laws.

If the legislature intended by this act to assume the discharge of the obligations of congress to the troops, they would have used language that would have clearly expressed that intention. I think the language used in this act cannot be construed to throw on the state of Virginia the obligation of redeeming the promises of congress to give bounty in land. It relates to the men enlisting, or who may have enlisted under the act of May 1779, as it was to them and them only, that Virginia was pledged to give a land bounty for service during the war. The negro and land is by this act to be given to the same persons, and I think, clearly to those recruits who enlist to serve during the war, and not to those who enlist to serve three years.

At the session of October 1779, an act was passed for securing to officers and soldiers the lands reserved to them.

The first section recites, that the Green river country had been reserved for them, and prohibits settlement on it.

The second section recites, that no law of this commonwealth hath ascertained the proportions of land to be granted to the officers; and doubts may arise, as to the particular quantity of land due to the soldiers, &c. from the different terms of their enlistment, and enacts, that every officer who has served in the Virginia line on continental establishment to the end of the war, shall receive the quantity of land in the act specified. To every non-commissioned officer, who having enlisted for the war, shall have served to the end thereof, 400 acres; to every soldier under like circumstances, 200 acres; to every non-commissioned officer who shall have enlisted for three years and served to the end of the same, or to the end of the war, 200 acres; and to every soldier under the like circumstances, 200 acres. And where any officer or soldier shall have fallen in the service, his heirs or legal representatives, shall be entitled to the same quantity of land as would have been due to such officer or soldier had he been living.

This act does not purport to create any new engagement, or liability on the part of the state; but only to define and explain the rights under previous enlistment; it must, therefore, refer to the previous terms of enlistment, and regard must be had to them in its explanation. Now the review of the laws on this subject shews, that land bounty was, by the terms of enlistment, due from Virginia, only to those soldiers who enlisted for the continuance of war, in pursuance of the act of May 1779; those who enlisted for three years under the act of 1778, for raising 2216 men, and those drafted men who enlisted under the act of 1777. And by this act it is clearly provided, that to give the representative of a soldier dying in the service, a claim to land bounty, the soldier must be engaged by such terms of enlistment, as would have given him a bounty if he had survived. I think, therefore, no heir or representative of a soldier dying in the service can claim a bounty for him, unless he was enlisted under one of the three acts above stated.

By an act passed November 1781, p. 499, a change is made in the terms and condition of service of the continental troops. They are to be enlisted for two years or the war, and soldiers enlisting for this period are declared entitled to the same bounty and immunities as other continental troops.

By an act passed May 1782, Hen. Stat. at Large, vol. 11, p. 17, every able bodied man who will enlist for three years or during the war, is entitled to the same bounty, pay and emoluments given to the continental troops.

In May 1782, an act was passed for settling the claims of the soldiers, and to provide funds for their payment, and to provide for the redemption of certificates. pp. 80, 81.

From the preamble of this act, it is apparent that the object of the act is to guard against the depreciation of the certificates given to the soldiers for the arrears of their pay.

By the seventh section of that act, officers and soldiers having claim to lands reserved for bounty, are directed to send in their vouchers to the war office; those residing in the state before the first of January next; those out of the state before the first of June thereafter.

By the 9th section, it is declared that every officer or soldier who served three successive years without being cashiered or superseded, shall have an unconditional title to his portion of the land appropriated as aforesaid; and for every year over six years after he last went into service, he shall be entitled to one-sixth part, in addition to the quantity of land apportioned to his rank respectively.

This act does not purport to hold out terms to future enlistments, or even to declare the terms of prior enlistments, but gives an unconditional title to every soldier having served three years. It can only be construed as giving a gratuity; the reason of such a gift is obvious. The government was then in arrear to its soldiers, and their certificates, by depreciation, almost worthless. They had not the means to redeem these certificates, and the officers and soldiers were daily subjected to loss from their decreasing value. As some equivalent for this injury, this promise of land to all soldiers who served three years was perhaps made. But it is not material to enquire what was the motive; it can be considered only as a gratuity, except so far as it might have been claimed on the ground of previous contract. I have attempted to shew the only cases in which such a claim could have been preferred before this act. This act no doubt gives gratuitous land to many persons not entitled to it by previous laws. But those persons who claim under it as a gratuity, and not on the ground of previous contract, must bring themselves within its terms. Now there is not in this act any promise made to the representatives of persons dying during the war, and of course it ought not to be used to give them claims not given by the previous acts of the legislature.

The result of my examination is, that I am of opinion that no soldier dying in the service previous to May 1779, could have claim to land bounty from the state of Virginia, unless he was a soldier drafted under the law of 1777, and who enlisted for three years after joining the army; or, 2. That he was one of the 2216 men enlisted for three years under the act of 1778, to fill out the continental battalions.

I am further of opinion, that no soldier dying in the service was entitled to land bounty, if he died after the act of May 1799, unless he was, 1st. A soldier drafted under the act of 1777, and who after joining the army, enlisted to serve three years; or, 2d. That he enlisted for three years under the act of 1778, to raise 2216 men to fill out the continental battalions; or, 3d. That he enlisted to serve during the war, after the passage of the act of May 1779; or, 4th. That he enlisted for two years, or during the war, under the act of November 1781; or, 5th. That he enlisted to serve three years, or during the war, under the act of May 1782.

The representatives of a soldier dying in service, are not entitled to bounty land unless they shew that at the time of his death he was serving under a contract of enlistment, by which he could have claimed land bounty if he had survived his term of service. The five laws above mentioned are the only laws under which a soldier could claim bounty by virtue of his contract of enlistment; and his legal representatives cannot claim a land bounty for him unless they prove he was enlisted under one of those laws.

The claim of the officers stands on a different ground. They were commissioned during good behaviour, and of course were to serve during the war. All doubt is removed from their claims by the act of 1780, (Hen. Stat. at Large, vol. 10, pp. 374, 5.) By the fifth section of this act, it is enacted, that the legal representatives of any officer on continental or state establishments, who may have died in the service before the bounty of lands granted in this or any former law, shall be entitled to receive the same in like manner as the officer himself might have done when living, agreeable to his rank. The land office law of May 1779, and the law of October 1779, see Hen. Stat. vol. 10, pp. 160, 61, give land bounty to the representatives of all officers commanding the troops in the Virginia line, who die in the service. By the act of October 1779, the same land bounty is given to chaplains, surgeons and surgeons' mates, who serve for three years, as is given to officers drawing the same pay and rations.

From a careful examination of these acts, I have formed the opinion that the representatives of officers who died in the military service in the revolutionary war, are entitled to bounty land.

That there is no discrimination between the cases of the representatives of those officers who died before and those who died after the passage of the land bounty laws.

I have in the preceding pages given the committee the result of my examination of the laws establishing the Virginia line, and giving land bounty to the soldiers and officers who served in it. I have anxiously sought out all the laws connected with the subject, and tried to ascertain the actual rights of the officers and soldiers, and of their representatives. I submit the opinions I have formed to the committee, with the hope they may be found useful to them.

S. S. BAXTER, Attorney General.
